6 Stands / co-exhibitors

The stand sites identified by the respective numbers on the site plan are basic units which can be enlarged by combining them. It is also possible for several exhibitors to share stand units - without a surcharge. In this case we would like to ask the main exhibitor to register under indication of all co-exhibitors. If you require a larger joint stand which deviates from the existing site plan, we will of course elaborate alternatives.

7 Early booking discount

5 % early booking discount until 31/05/2018

8 Special Areas

Terms for special areas and joint stands according to the price list of the organiser.

9 Compulsory costs: glass service

The following costs shall be charged in addition to the rent for the flat-rate charge for glass service. At charge of € 98 plus German VAT, each exhibitor will be supplied with two racks of rental universal glasses. The exhibitor will receive 2 racks of universal glasses unique per day at the booth. These glasses will only be picked up and washed every evening after the show. Furthermore each visitor is given the official wine-tasting glass at the entrance (= universal glass) for a deposit. The visitor could exchange the glass at the exhibitors' stand for a clean universal glass only if required. Additional needed glasses (universal or special glasses) can be ordered subject to charge.

10 free tickets

Each exhibitor receives 5 free tickets as a gift from the organizer for their customers. Tickets are valid for a unique free entrance to the fair. The number of free tickets shall not be increased by the accommodation of co-exhibitors.

11 Guest tickets

For the personal invitation of customers, exhibitors have the opportunity to order guest tickets (green or red). The order is free of charge, only redeemed vouchers will be recharged to the exhibitor after the fair.

12 Exhibitor Passes

The exhibitor will receive the following numbers of exhibitor passes without charge:

- up to 10 (incl.) square meters of stand space: 4 passes
- More than 10 to 15 (incl.) square meters of stand space: 6 passes
- Each additional 10 square meters (or part thereof): 2 passes

The number of free exhibitor's passes shall not be increased by the accommodation of co-exhibitors. Any additional required passes may be purchased at a price of 34 € plus German VAT each. The passes are intended for use only by the named exhibitors and their exhibition staff and agents.

13 Rental furnishings

Order forms for any stand furnishings you may require can be found online at www.forum-vini.de.

14 Additional services

The exhibitor may request further services in connection with his attendance at the exhibition in addition to the standard package provided. The relevant documents shall be sent to the exhibitor approximately six weeks prior to the commencement of the exhibition. Should the exhibitor apply for additional services, he shall pay the rent and / or installation and user charges in respect thereof. Those companies who lease and / or install materials through the agency of MV, and with its consent, shall issue their invoices for the leased objects, and / or their installation and use, directly to the exhibitor, and shall charge the standard rates published by the exhibitor.

CONDITIONS OF ATTENDANCE FORUM VINI 2018

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF ATTENDANCE

1 Organiser

FORUM VINI 2018 will be held by Meininger Verlag GmbH (hereinafter referred to as MV).

2 Participation Fee

See clause 5 of the special conditions of attendance.

3 Terms of and Time for Payment

The deadlines for payment on the invoice must be observed. 30 % of the stand area fee must be paid directly upon the conclusion of the contract and the remaining 70 % must be paid by 15th September 2018 at the latest. Any invoices issued thereafter must be paid in full. All invoices are net without any deduction and exclude the applicable VAT. Prior payment of the invoiced amounts in full is a precondition for access to the exhibition space by the applicant and / or any stated co-exhibitors. If payment is delayed, interest will be charged at 5 % above the relevant base rate in accordance with § 1 of the Federal Lending Regulations dating from 9.6.1998. After futile demand for payment and after sufficient notice to the exhibitor, the organizer has the right to re-use the rented stand area. They may do so without the original exhibitor being released from their prior obligation. For all outstanding liabilities, the organizer may retain the stand equipment and products of the relevant exhibitor as security. If payment is not made within the indicated period the organizer is entitled, after written notification, to sell the retained items in a private sale or by auction. The organizer assumes no liability for damage caused to any of the retained items. Objections to invoices may only be considered should MV receive written notification of these objections within 14 days after the date of issue of the said invoices.

4 Registration

It is only possible to register with the form provided, which must be carefully and entirely completed in writing and when signed will have a legally binding effect. By signing the registration form the applicant acknowledges that the terms and conditions of participation are binding to him. The applicant should ensure that any persons employed by him during the event will also comply with these terms and conditions. Regardless of the admission given by the organizer, the registration is binding to the applicant. It is binding until the organizer has finally approved or disapproved the application.

5 Admission / Nomenclature

A company may only submit a registration which adheres to the nomenclature used by the exhibition: Producers and specialized trading firms from the wine, sparkling wine, spirits, beverages, specialities, delicacies and accessories sectors, publishers, specialized suppliers from the catering, travelling and online sectors. The organizer shall decide on the admission of the applicant after consideration of the registered exhibits and confirm his decision in writing. With this confirmation the contract will come into effect. Any reservations or conditions added to the registration form shall not be effective unless confirmed by the organizer in writing. There is no legal claim for admission. Consequently, the organizer has the right to debar individual applicants from participation for justifiable reasons, particularly if there is not sufficient space available. However, the organizer maintains the right to exclude applicants for other reasons. The organizer is further entitled to make changes to the registered items and to the space applied for. No claims against the organizer may be derived from any such changes. The admission only applies to the registered exhibits and the exhibitors named in the confirmation, and only to the assigned place. Any special requests made by the exhibitors will be given consideration if at all possible. However, the assignment will be performed in a way which takes account of an impressive overall view of the exhibition. No exclusion of competition will be granted. Companies which have not complied with provisions, conditions or obligations in the course of prior events, may be debarred from approval.

6 Co-Exhibitors

The accommodation of co-exhibitors is possible without additional charges, but is subject to the admission by the organizer of the co-exhibitor named in the registration form. At least 3 sqm must be available for each participant. A co-exhibitor is somebody who is represented at the stand of the main exhibitor with its own personnel and its own offers. This also includes group companies and subsidiary companies. Company representatives are not admitted as co-exhibitors. The exhibitor must ensure that his co-exhibitors, if any, comply with these terms and conditions of participation and any other provisions. The registering exhibitor is liable for the performance of all financial obligations and of any obligations otherwise arising under these terms and conditions of participation and any other provisions. Any companies not stated in the admission may not be promoted on the stand. In the event of a participation of a co-exhibitor without registration and admission, the organizer is entitled to terminate the given admission without notice and to cause the stand to be cleared at the expense of the exhibitor. In such case, the exhibitor shall not be entitled to any damages.

Sole contract partner is the main exhibitor and the total encashment is entirely handled with the main exhibitor.

7 Assignment of the stand to a third parties / sub-lessor

(1) The exhibitor(s) may not wholly or partially sublet the leased stand to third parties or otherwise assign it, exchange it, or accept orders for other companies through it, without the organizer's permission.

(2) Goods or companies which are not specified in the attendance authorisation may not be advertised on the stand. Should a co-exhibitor be introduced without the organizer's permission, the organizer may cancel the exhibitor's contract without notice and clear the stand at the lessee's expense. The lessee of the stand shall waive any claim for unlawful interference in its property which arises as a result. The lessee of the stand shall not be entitled to claim damages.

(3) All those companies which use the stand in addition to the head lessee shall be regarded as co-exhibitors even if they have close economic or organisational ties with the head lessor. MV shall determine this issue in doubtful cases.

8 Rental Contract

The rental contract will come into effect when the organizer has notified the applicant in writing that they have been admitted. In the interest of the overall exhibition, the organizer must be flexible and able to take into account any changes which occur during the period of preparation of the exhibition. The organizer is entitled to relocate or close any entrances and exits and to make any other justifiable structural changes. No claims against the organizer may be derived because of such changes. The organizer is also entitled to change space allocations after the rental contract has come into effect. In particular to assign the exhibitor to an exhibition area in another location or of a different size. This may be necessary for safety or public order reasons, or because the trade fair is oversubscribed and further applicants must be admitted. However, such subsequent changes may not exceed the scope which the exhibitor can reasonably be expected to accept. Minor changes of the stand space due to technical circumstances, especially caused by the erection of the stand walls or any safety measures, power supply etc. can not be taken as a basis for a reduction in stand rent. The exhibitor has to accept that the location of the other stands may have changed at the time of commencement of the fair or exhibition compared to the time of admission; any such changes shall not entitle the exhibitor to any claims against the organizer. In the event that the assigned space is not available through no fault of the organizer, the exhibitor is entitled to a refund of any stand rent which has already been paid. Further claims against the organizer are excluded.

9 Catalogue entry / online list of exhibitors

By submitting the application, the exhibitor expressly consents to an entry of his name and his co-exhibitor(s). Further details regarding entry on the website and in the catalogue is asked for separately. The organizer may commission a contractual partner with the compilation of the catalogue, if required. If the information for the compulsory entries has not been provided by the date as stated such information will be included according to information available to the organizer at the time. Legal claims for incorrect, incomplete or missing entries may be raised only in case of wilful or gross negligence on the part of the organizer or his employees.

10 Rescission from Registration, Revocation of Approval, Exclusion of Items

Following admission, the exhibitor shall pay the participation charges even if he withdraws from the contract or otherwise does not participate. A cancellation of the rental contract is possible only with the written consent of the organizer. The organizer is not obligated to agree to a cancellation of the contract. Should the exhibitor not attend the exhibition or only use part of his allocated space, the exhibitor shall remain liable for the payment of the full price of attendance and for (100 %) of the cost of the additional services ordered by him. The sum payable by the exhibitor may only be reduced should MV succeed in leasing the entire space, including the additional ordered services, to another party on the same conditions as those agreed with the exhibitor. The exhibitor must prove in doubtful cases that MV has neglected an opportunity to re-let the space. However, stand exchanges are not possible. The exhibitor is liable for the loss of rent and must compensate the organizer in full for any damages incurred by the latter as a result of a withdrawal. In the event that the stand can not be re-let, the organizer is entitled to use the stand and to furnish it at the expense of the exhibitor in the interest of the overall view of the exhibition. This shall not affect the organizer's claim for participation fee and for other costs incurred as a result of the exhibitor's actions. If, in the case of a withdrawal at short notice, the stand space is occupied additionally by a present exhibitor (such as a stand neighbour), such occupation shall not be regarded as a release. The organizer's claim for payment of the full stand rent remains effective regardless thereof. The organizer is entitled to withdraw from the contract if the exhibitor fails to fulfill his contractual obligations, if insolvency proceedings have been instituted against the assets of the exhibitor, if the institution of insolvency proceedings has been dismissed on the grounds of insufficient assets, or if a petition has been filed to institute insolvency proceedings. The exhibitor must inform the organizer immediately and in any case if such proceedings have been initiated. The exhibitor is liable for any damages sustained by the organizer. The organizer is entitled to withdraw from the rental contract:

- if the admission was given on the basis of incorrect or incomplete information;
- if reasons become known to the organizer, which would have justified a non-admission had they been known previously or if the conditions at the time of admission have changed in any way.

- In particular if the exhibitor has not fulfilled their financial obligations or if they fail to meet the terms and conditions of participation or the domestic authority of the lessor. Such revocation can be made at any time, even after the commencement of the event. The organizer also reserves the right to claim damages in such cases. The withdrawal or non-participation of the main exhibitor, or the revocation of his admission, shall simultaneously result in the exclusion of any co-exhibitors.

The organizer may request that items not included in the registration or which prove to be harassing, hazardous or otherwise inappropriate shall be removed. If the exhibitor fails to comply with such request, then such items shall be removed by the organizer at the expense of the exhibitor.

11 Force Majeure

The organizer may postpone, shorten, extend, close in whole or in part, or cancel the event for reasons beyond their control. In such justified exceptional cases, the exhibitors shall neither be entitled to withdraw or a refund or reduction of the stand rent, nor may they claim for damages. If the event does not take place for the aforementioned reasons, the exhibitor may be charged up to 25 % of the participation fee to cover general costs. A larger amount may be demanded from individual exhibitors if they have given instructions for extra work. If it is to be expected that the event may not result in a reasonable success for the exhibitors due to a lack of participation by exhibitors or a lack of interest of visitors, then the organizer maintains the right to cancel the fair. In this case, no amounts are owed but the organizer shall not be liable for expenses or damages.

12 Design and Equipment of stands

The design of the stands lies with the exhibitor at his expense. The stand area must conform to the overall plan of the exhibition. All the materials used for the assembly of the stand must be anti-inflammatory and must conform to the statutory provisions prescribed by the (relevant current version of the) German Fire Prevention Regulation (Brandschutzordnung). The organizer reserves the right to prohibit the erection of inappropriately equipped stands or to change such equipment at the expense of the exhibitor. A reduction of the given floor space through additional installations (such as partition walls etc.) is not allowed. The standard measure of the stall height is 2.50 meters as a maximum. Exceeding the height limitation for stand walls is subject to the consent of the technical management of MOC. The floors, hall walls and pillars, and any fixtures, especially including installations and fire fighting facilities, may not be worked in any case and must be accessible at any time. The use of staple gun is strictly prohibited for safety reasons. Fixings to floors, walls or ceilings require the express prior approval of the MOC engineering.

All damages occurring to the stand walls and to the hall facilities through actions of the exhibitor will be at the expense of the exhibitor and will be invoiced to him. Upon dismantling the exhibitor is obligated to remove any and all materials and his entire exhibition property without any residues and to restore the partition walls and the stand area to its original condition. If the exhibitor fails to comply with these obligations, the organizer is entitled to cause actions to be taken at the expense of the exhibitor to restore the original condition or, as the case may be, to dispose of any items left. Any exhibition property still located at the stands after the time set for dismantling may be removed and stored at the expense of the exhibitor. No liability is assumed at any time for such property. Individual exhibition stands must not be assembled or arranged in such a manner that neighbouring exhibitors or visitors to the exhibition are obstructed by exhibits, advertising boards or displays. The name of the stand holder must be visible to the general public throughout the entire term of the event; the exhibitor shall therefore affix the signage required for this purpose.

13 Exhibits, sales activity

(1) Exhibits must be in mint condition and must directly relate to the sector being promoted by the exhibition.

(2) MV may demand the removal of any exhibited goods of which it has not been notified or which prove to be burdensome or hazardous, or which are incompatible with the objective of the exhibition. MV may remove the exhibits at the exhibitor's cost should the exhibitor fail to comply with such a demand.

(3) The organizer's express (written) authorisation shall be required for the installation of particularly heavy exhibits which require bases or special foundations. The exhibitor must provide the organizer with advance written notice (dimensions, weight) of any such requirements.

(4) The exhibitor must ensure the observance of copyrights and other commercial intellectual property rights pertaining to the exhibits and the products being sold.

14 Reduction of the area of the stand

The provisions which govern the right of the exhibitor to withdraw shall also apply mutatis mutandis should the exhibitor notify MV in writing that it wishes to reduce the area of its stand after the conclusion of the contract. The exhibitor shall pay the full gross rent even if it does not use the entire area of the stand.

15 Transport of Exhibition Property, Parking on the Site

Exhibition property may be sent to the MOC haulage contractor. The shipment must be performed free of freight costs and charges. Only the forwarding agents appointed by the MOC shall be permitted to handle consignments within the exhibition grounds. Storage of packaging materials of any kind is prohibited on the exhibition premises and stands, in the delivery zone, foyer, corridors, staircases, and basement garage. Any removal may take place at the expense and risk of the exhibitor. The delivery zones are reserved exclusively for loading and unloading. MOC management reserves the right to limit the duration of stay of vehicles in the delivery area and to ensure adherence to such limitation by way of pledge.

16 Stand Operation

The set times for construction and dismantling must be strictly adhered to. Stands not occupied on the date of construction may be put to another use by the organizer. During the entire term of the exhibition and during opening hours the stands must be properly equipped and staffed with competent personnel. Especially, it must be ensured that the staff are present at the commencement of the event. Exhibitors have no right to access other stands outside the official opening hours, unless permission has been obtained from the respective exhibitors. The exhibitor may not relocate the stand or abandon it to any third party in whole or in part. Removal of the exhibition property and dismantling of the stand before the end of the exhibition is generally prohibited.

17 Promotion

Any kind of promotion within the stand rented by the exhibitor is allowed, provided that it does not have an obtrusive effect, complies with applicable provisions of law and does not result in an impairment of or interference with the exhibition operation or individual participants. Any kind of promotion, as well as the distribution of printed matters and samples outside the stand is prohibited. The presentation of video, music or shows is only possible with a special permission from the organizer. Such presentations are to be held in a way that neither visitors nor other exhibitors are molested. For musical performances the approval and payment of fees may be required by GEMA (equivalent of the Performing Rights Society).

18 Exhibition Business

The exhibitor is entitled to make sales and to take in orders for his approved products. The permission of sales does not apply to the sale of beverages for immediate consumption on site. The delivery of beverages for immediate consumption on site must only be made in the form of samples and free of charge.

19 Catering

The gastronomic supply within the exhibition premises as well as the delivery of beverages is the responsibility of the contractors of MOC. If necessary, the exhibitor is obliged to apply for a licence to sell foods and drinks according to §12 Gaststättengesetz (German catering law) at the local authorities: Kreisverwaltungsreferat München, Ruppertstraße 19, 80313 München. The exhibitor shall guarantee that the food and drink provided by him is healthy and does not warrant complaint.

20 Security

During the exhibition the organizer is responsible for the overall security at the entrances and exits and within the hall. However, due to the size of the trade fair grounds and the number of people present, no guarantee can be given with regard to complete security. The exhibitor himself should ensure the security of his stand and his exhibition property and take out appropriate insurance cover against damages. The responsibility of the organizer for general security does not affect his exemption from liability for damage to property and personal injury. Guards may be hired only from the security firm approved by the MOC. The costs incurred must be paid directly to this firm. Exhibitors are reminded explicitly that exhibits are exposed to increased risks during trade fair construction and dismantling. Valuable and easily movable exhibits should always be locked away at night.

21 Cleaning

The organizer is responsible for the cleaning of the corridors in the exhibition hall. The cleaning of the stands is the responsibility of the exhibitor and must be carried out each day before the exhibition opens. If the exhibitor requires a contract cleaner for the stand, the MOC, contractors must be employed. Exhibitors and their contractors are responsible for the removal of their own refuse. Information on the different options for waste disposal at the exhibition complex is given in the Technical Regulations of the MOC.

22 Sound volumes

The organizer is expressly authorised to intervene should neighbouring stands, or the proper functioning of the exhibition as a whole, be disturbed by excessive noise generated by individual stands. A maximum sound volume for exhibitors of 70 decibel is given. MV may in severe cases exercise its right of control in order to prohibit the demonstration of noisy devices, the operation of loud speaker systems, and the presentation of music and images should an amicable solution with other affected exhibitors prove impossible.

23 Technical Facilities

The organizer is responsible for the heating and lighting of the exhibition premises. Special requests may be met on the basis of a written agreement. The costs thereof are borne by the exhibitor. The organizer assumes no liability for damages arising from technical breakdowns upon the occurrence of force majeure or from the interruption of supply by order of the fire chief or municipal utilities. All installations for the stands as well as any installations that affect the exhibition halls or existing hall fittings (for example hangings attached to the ceiling) shall be undertaken solely by the MOC and its subcontractors. Electrical installations and devices must conform to the VDE rules and be installed in an admissible way by an expert firm. The technical management of MOC will have all electrical stand installations be examined by an expert. The exhibitor is liable for any damages caused by such installations. Fire protection and safety rules must be complied with.

24 Electricity, gas, water and sewage connections

Should utility connections be present and should the exhibitor require their use, he shall state this in his registration form. The connection of installations to utility services shall only be undertaken by those companies authorised by the organiser. Connections and devices which do not conform to the relevant provisions – particularly those of the Association of Electrotechnology, Electronics and Information Technology (Verband der Elektrotechnik Elektronik Informationstechnik – VDE) – or whose consumption is higher than that reported by the exhibitor, may be removed by MV at the exhibitor's expense or may be taken out of service. The exhibitor shall be liable for all the loss and damage which arises in connection with the use of connections which have not been reported to the organiser or which have not been provided through the organiser. The organiser shall not be liable for interruptions or fluctuations in the supply of gas, water or electricity.

25 Liability and Insurance

The organizer is legally liable that the exhibition area and access thereto are in a condition ensuring the contractual use thereof during the exhibition. The organizer is excluded from any further liability for personal injury, property or financial damage to the exhibitor or a third party. The organizer accepts no liability in any case of damage to or loss of property brought in by the exhibitors or the stand equipment. The foregoing sentence applies regardless of whether such damages or losses occur before, during or after the event. Also excluded from liability are indirect damages and loss of profit. The exclusion of liability also applies to the personal liability of employees, assistants, co-workers and agents of the organizer. The organizer accepts no responsibility for looking after exhibits and stand fittings. This exclusion of liability is in no way limited by the security services provided by the organizer. The exhibitors themselves are legally liable for any damages caused by them or their co-exhibitors, or their employees, agents or their exhibition items and equipment to any persons or property. Each of the exhibitors agrees to effect insurance to cover both their own exhibition property and the liability of the exhibitors to third parties, and to pay the premiums for such insurance in time. If the exhibitor has no insurance cover for exhibition participation via their company insurance, they may at their own cost obtain cover for liability insurance. Appropriate forms from the MOC will be sent to the exhibitor together with the technical regulations and the order form booklet. The organizer also recommends that the exhibitor takes out insurance against cancellation of a show. Foreign exhibitors are recommended to take out insurance in their home country.

The exhibitor shall provide MV with a statement confirming the existence of an insurance policy which provides extended cover against third party liability. Every exhibitor is urgently advised to insure, at his own expense, his risk of third party liability, all his trade fair and exhibition goods, and all the property which he brings onto the premises, against damage caused by fire, explosion, acts of God, and burst water pipes. An appropriate insurance policy may be obtained through a framework contract concluded by MV with a reputable insurance company (see the pre-printed form in the service kit).

26 Official Regulations

The exhibitor and any stand construction firm he commissions must observe the labour and social regulations in force. In particular, he must observe regulations concerning social security contributions, including those for part-time or temporary employment (registration, social security card). The conditions of the German Industrial Code (Gewerbeordnung), Regulation on Price Quotations (Preisangebenverordnung), the Law Governing Discounts (Rabattgesetz), and the applicable conditions of the German Commercial Code (HGB), fire protection, protection against accidents, consumer protection must be complied with. Participants from EU member states must comply with the provisions of Council Directive (EEC) No. 92/12 regarding the overall system, and the possession, transport, and control of goods liable to excise duties, implemented into the German Law on Excise Taxation.

27 Data Protection

All information of the exhibitor will be collected, processed and used for organizational purposes as well as for the purpose of advertising and may in this regard be passed on to third parties, with which the organizer cooperates (construction companies, companies providing trade fair services, catalogue publishing houses, authorities in the context of legal requirements). This will be carried out in compliance with the German Data Protection Act at the current version. The exhibitor also consents to the publication of information on his participation through electronic media including the internet. The exhibitor consents to this arrangement unless he disagrees explicitly.

28 Basis of Contract

These terms and conditions of participation, the house regulations, safety rules and all other regulations received by the exhibitor until commencement of the event are integral part of the basis of contract. Any verbal agreements, individual permissions and special regulations are valid only upon written confirmation by the organizer. MOC has full authority within the grounds of the exhibition area and reserves the rights to issue instructions. MOC's consent must be obtained for photography, filming, video recording and sketching.

29 Forfeiture Clause

Any claims by the exhibitor against the organizer which are not asserted in writing within 4 weeks after commencement of the exhibition at the latest shall be forfeited.

30 Modifications

Any derogation from the general and special conditions of attendance shall only be valid if agreed in writing.

31 Limitation of actions

All claims made by the exhibitor against the organizer shall be time-barred after 6 months in the absence of a contrary mandatory legal provision.

32 Right of management

MV shall possess the right of control of the entire venue of the exhibition throughout the period of assembly and disassembly, and during the term of the exhibition. Animals may not be brought into the exhibition venue. MV may issue instructions.

33 Final provisions

Should any term of these special and general conditions of attendance prove to be wholly or partially ineffective, the validity of the other terms shall not be affected in consequence thereof. The invalid term shall be replaced by a valid term consistent with the purpose of these conditions.

34 Place of Performance and Jurisdiction

Place of performance and jurisdiction for all mutual obligations is Neustadt, or at the request of the organizer, the jurisdiction of the exhibitor's principal place of business. This also applies to complaints arising from cheques or drafts. This contract is subject exclusively to the provisions of the German Law. In case of divergence between the English and the German text, the German text is legally binding.
